

SAMPLE FOUR-YEAR SCHEDULES

of Students Taking Multiple Performing/Visual Arts Electives

Students and their families often wonder how it is possible to participate in the performing and visual arts while maintaining a comprehensive course of study at New Trier. A schedule that includes multiple courses in the performing and visual arts will still allow students to take all of the courses needed for admission to a wide range of college and universities. The sample schedules below – only three of many possible combinations – illustrate how current students prepare for a broad spectrum of college majors and careers while pursuing their interests in the performing and visual arts. Please note that taking two or three electives may necessitate taking summer school and/or early bird courses.

*This student could take biology instead of a study hall by taking girls' chorus three days a week when the science lab does not meet.

**If taking an early bird course, there must be a free period and lunch in the schedule. However, this student has been approved for a Non-Standard schedule and does not have a free period in addition to lunch.
