

The New Trier Parents' Association presents
Helping Your Teen
Establish a Foundation of Financial Literacy

Thursday, April 25, 7:00 PM
Room C234, Northfield Campus
Open to all New Trier Parents

By providing our children with a foundation of financial literacy, we help to empower them and make them more accountable. In a financial world that has become increasingly complex with expanded choices, platforms, and individual responsibility, understanding personal finance is more important than ever. Nancy Doyle, CFA, North Shore mother of two, and author of two books including Manage Your Financial Life: Just Starting Out, will share tips and advice for talking to your teens about money. She uses real life experiences – hers and those of family and friends – to illustrate key concepts. Whether your children are in high school, college, or in the work force, there are important money lessons to share.
